

AVIAN INFLUENZA

The World Organisation for Animal Health (OIE) has developed an online portal to provide access to a wide range of information about avian influenza (AI). The aim is to improve understanding of the disease, raise awareness of the AI situation internationally and provide access to the OIE's recommendation on how to control it. The portal enables the global spread of different strains of AI virus to be followed in real time. It also provides access to communication tools aimed at various audiences. The portal can be accessed at
