9th and 10th February 2019 hosted by Secret World

Our wildlife in Britain is under constant pressure from environmental impacts, human behaviours, changes in legislation and attempts to control disease in livestock. As a result, wildlife casualty animals are frequently brought into captivity, where their assessment and care must be carefully considered in order to avoid further suffering.

This two-day conference, organised and hosted by Secret World Wildlife Rescue, will look at some of the issues facing British wild animals and consider the latest techniques in treatment, rehabilitation and release.

Saturday 9th February (10am - 5pm) Caring for Wildlife in the Wild. Speakers include: Alick Simmons, Lucy Bearman-Brown, Geoff Edmonds & Richard Delahay

Sunday 10th February (9am - 4pm) Caring for Rescued British Wildlife - what's new in treatment, rehabilitation and release. Speakers include: Tom Dutton, Alex Barlow, Liz Mullineaux & Andy Parr

Early bird rate up to 30th November: 1-day only £70 (£80 from 1st December); both days £120 (£150 from 1st December)
